A summary is a shortened version of a text. To summarise, identify the most important information.

Read the passage.

Renewable Resources

Tidal power is energy produced from tides and currents.

Tides are the changes in sea level that happen twice a day. They are caused by the gravitational effect of the moon.

A tidal power station uses the movement of water through a barrage to generate electricity. The water turns turbines inside the barrage, which power generators and produce electricity. Electricity is also made when the tide goes back and water flows the other way through the barrage.

Highlight the sentence that explains what tidal power is.

Underline the sentence that gives the most information about what a tidal power station does.

Circle the correct answers.

- Which sentence contains the most information about tides and tidal power?
 - Tidal power is energy produced from tides and currents.
 - Tides are the changes in sea level that happen twice a day.
 - They are caused by the gravitational effect of the moon.
- Which sentence contains the most information about what a tidal power station does?
 - A tidal power station uses the movement of water through a barrage to generate electricity.
 - The water turns turbines inside the barrage, which power generators and produce electricity.
 - Electricity is also made when the tide goes back and water flows the other way through the barrage.
- Use the sentences you have chosen in questions 1 and 2 to write a summary of the passage.
